

Power Corrupts (television debut by David Schied / produced by SC Media Group)

Can someone please tell me what is going on down there in Texas?...and why Texas republican clubs would be having their merger celebration hosted by a convicted SEX OFFENDER and CAREER CRIMINAL?

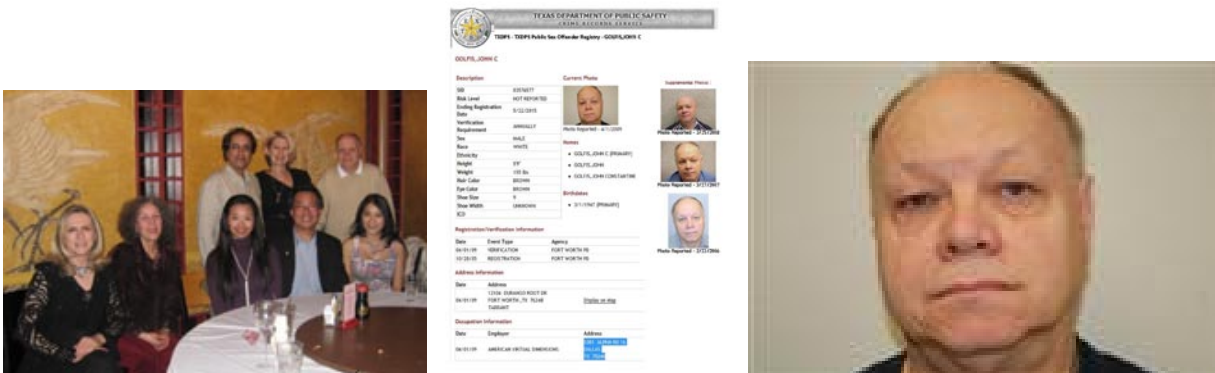

I mean, just as we had Bernie Madoff's PONZI SCHEME going for three decades while the SEC ignored the obvious, we now have the mayor of a Dallas suburb using his clout with former U.S. President George H.W. Bush Senior to give legitimacy to professional con-artist and career criminal John Golfis. You can check it out for yourself at this Republican campaign website for Addison, Texas mayor Joe Chow. Here's mayor Chow... and his wife with the former president Bush...and on the same website is mayor Chow and his wife (here in the center) with registered sex offender John C. Golfis.

Insert pics from: http://www.joechowcampaign.com/JoeChow\_I\_am\_Addison.htm

Haven't our government bureaucrats yet learned that Bernie Madoff's success in running American's biggest public rip-off was due to others providing him with superfluous legitimacy; and with "no questions asked"? Here now we have high profile politicians and other professionals – people who are expected to "know better"....celebrating with and giving unwarranted AUTHORITY to yet another convicted felon.

What am I talking about? Shall we call it government incompetence? Gross negligence?...Our INEPT administration once again hard at work?... Or is this outright malfeasance of duty to taxpayers, and public corruption? Whatever we might want to call it...as recent as July 10th, 2009 the GOP conducted a "merger" between the North Dallas Republican Club and the Greater Dallas Republicans. And you know where they held the reception?...at an art gallery operated by this con man....JOHN CONSTANTINE GOLFIS, who hosted that reception at Art Couture Gallery in north Dallas.

Here's a mug shot of John Golfis after he was charged in 1998 with something like 13 felony counts of grand theft, assault, rape of an unconscious victim...with an object....and writing hot checks.

He's also the same person named in another more recent Dallas/Ft. Worth news story broadcast by CBS concerning ART FRAUD. That was in 2007 when Golfis running sister companies called American Virtual Dimensions and IOS Fine Art. Check it out. It's on the web....CBS 11 News in Dallas called it a three decade, multi-state criminal history....

Feb 1, 2007
Artists Claim Men Conned Them Out Of Thousands
 Here's a charming entrepreneur with an uncanny ability to close the sale. But beyond his intoxicating pitch and extensive knowledge of photos and video production, some see criminal intent.
 John Constantine Golfis is the brains behind two thriving art production and marketing companies, American Virtual Dimensions and IOS Fine Art, respectively.
 The companies are the subject of complaints for a former investor and employee who says Golfis used thousands of dollars in wages and merchandise. A four month CBS 11 News investigation reveals a three decade, multi-state criminal history in the business partner's past.

Now am I missing something here? I keep hearing stories from all across the United States... where parents shuffle their kids inside their homes, set up public protests in their communities, and even go door-to-door notifying neighbors when they've discovered a registered sex offender has moved into their neighborhood. While on the other hand, we have people like Addison, Texas Mayor Joe Chow.... a Texas judge and prosecutor – Lisa Fox – who reportedly has at least 18 years of criminal law experience, and a former Texas police chief – Catherine Smit – who is currently an “expert” private detective...and they're all welcoming convicted sex offender John Constantine Golfis with open arms to partner with them.

Aren't these the types of people we as citizens are expecting to be the experts in conducting character and background checks? before publicly honoring and legitimizing the business practices of criminals like this guy John Constantine Golfis of Fort Worth, Texas?

How similar is this to what was going on with Bernie Madoff?...Weren't those investment brokers simply ignoring the obvious?...Weren't they just operating with a "don't ask, don't tell" mentality?...seeking to line their own pockets? to legitimize themselves? by promoting something only too good to be true?.... and ultimately, at a devastating cost to the lives of tens of thousands, if not hundreds of thousands of American investors?

Wasn't it the "JOB" of the SEC to detect, to investigate, and to prosecute criminals like Bernie Madoff? Wasn't it their "JOB" to alert the public about these types of crimes? And to protect them against these types of criminals? Hindsight clearly tells us that they never even came close to doing their jobs, even

So what's John Golfis doing on the same web page with a Texas mayor and former President George Herbert Walker Bush?...

Let's take a look at what we know so far.... the federal database for registered sex offenders shows that as of April 2009 John Golfis was employed at American Virtual Dimensions, the company depicted by the 2007 CBS news story concerning an investigation into art fraud.

So again I ask... what's going on here?

And what is this convicted con artist doing with a partnership of art companies such as Gamut Control, Gamut Fine Art Publishing, and Art Couture Gallery? Am I reading correctly when this Internet blog says that these companies have formed a “strategic” alliance with a stated purpose of “PROTECTING artists”? ...and that this “alliance” of art companies is being condoned and supported by high profile politicians and a coalition of art professionals?

Gamut Control and Gamut Fine Art Publishing form the Artist Strategic Alliance Group

January 26, 2009 - Business

The Artist Strategic Alliance Group or ASAG is an alliance that was formed to protect the interests of artists. Several companies lead to Gamut Control and Gamut Fine Art Publishing's intention to form this alliance, and thus, the art world has a new force working out for the aspiring and established artist.

ASAG is the Artist Strategic Alliance Group is an alliance that was formed in 2008 but was recently expanded to include an advisory board to oversee the decisions made within Gamut Fine Art Publishing and protect the rights of artists. The alliance was formed by artists who believe in the art world and want to see it prosper. The alliance was formed by artists who believe in the art world and want to see it prosper. The alliance was formed by artists who believe in the art world and want to see it prosper.

Gamut Control and Gamut Fine Art Publishing have wonderful intentions of growing this alliance to become even greater than it is now. This idea originally came about after these two companies began to identify their own weaknesses. They have had their own health and shortcomings along the way but have corrected them and created the alliance to police themselves and protect the artists they represent. They have taken major steps to improve databases, develop new marketing strategies, and have added people to their team to correct administrative issues. This has taken much time, effort, and money, but they believe it will pay off for them as well as their faithful artists.

The future of ASAG is being built on helping artists avoid unnecessary drawbacks in their careers by being taken advantage of. The money in the art world comes from artists promoting ASAG, but not holding up their end of the begin to market and advertise the artist's work. Other companies have also promised quality limited editions only to continue to expand and lower the value of the art and artist. There are so many dishonest people out there who pay an artist and their family to live their lives as artists. ASAG was designed to prevent these situations from occurring. The board members are all there to guard duty for the benefit of artists to keep representatives and publishing houses to check and hold them accountable for their actions. It is hopeful that this alliance will become one of the most well-respected and trusted alliances in the art community. They eventually want to be a force to be reckoned with so that consumers across the country and worldwide know they can no longer be deceived and misrepresented. ASAG has big plans for the future, but for now is still in its beginning phases of formation. The organization is growing and thriving together quite well, but still has a way to go. Their training grounds will be now as with Gamut Control, LLC, Gamut Fine Art Publishing, LLC, and the Art Couture Gallery, LLC. The alliance is also working in conjunction with Fine Art Magazine and Art Business News to bring about a new age in the art-making and distributing process.

ASAG is looking to a prosperous 2009 and believes this year will be the first of many substantial years. Their new beginning starts on the month of January, 2009 at the artist's gala event at Art Couture Gallery. Gamut Control will be represented along with their best of the best, revolutionary artists showing their support. Gamut Fine Art Publishing as well as the major fine art magazines, Art Business News and Fine Art Magazine, will also be in attendance. ASAG would like to encourage the rest of the fine art community to join them at this event and kick off the New Year with a bang!

Something just doesn't add up here....And ASAG appears to be the very same group that Golfis was promoting just fresh out of prison in 2004...while operating a CALIFORNIA company with his new Asian wife, Mary Ding....called American Virtual Dimensions, "INK", with a subsidiary "dot com" company known as AVD Showcase.

They exchanged the most “unusual” but creative vows whereby Mary Ding agreed to serve as president of Golfis’ corporation to keep him from going back to prison on a parole violation. At the time, one of his parole conditions was that he not own or operate a company. In return, Golfis agreed to a “sham” marriage to keep Mary Ding out of prison for the same immigration fraud charges as her two previous business partners.

American Virtual Dimensions, Inc. was closed down just a year later in 2005, with John Golfis and Mary Ding fleeing California for Texas in summer of 2005 to set up a similar company under that same AVD name, but replacing the “Inc” with an “LLC”. Operating at that same business location was Golfis’ sister company, IOS Fine Art.

These two businesses, American Virtual Dimensions, LLC and IOS Fine Arts, LLC were set up using a man by the name of JOHN McCORMIC as Golfis’ new “patsy”....I mean “partner”.....who was to eventually become a willing “accomplice” in the furthering of Golfis’ crimes against the “Art” world.

While that business eventually went defunct, somehow it resurrected again as an even larger set of sister companies consisting of Gamut Control, LLC... Gamut Fine Art Production...Gamut Fine Art Publishing... Gamut Photos to Art, .....oh yes, let’s not forget ....Gamut’s affiliates...like “Your Card Pro”.....and Art Couture Gallery....both run by Golfis and McCormic.

Once they set up their new “storefront”, they needed something to “sell”...something to fill their “shelves” so to speak....and something to show potential “investors” for the next level of their “ponzi” business. They needed the rights to artwork products..... new unsuspecting “artists” as their potential crime victims.

After securing artists, the next step was to borrow from the reputation of others....and to use their notoriety for promoting their company and newly acquired products to high-end business “investors”.

Here is John McCormic on the left of this picture with Kim Klatt, from the Art Business News Magazine. Klatt is one of the “advisory board” members of the Artist Strategic Alliance Group (ASAG)...again, now affiliated with Gamut Control and the Art Couture Gallery instead of affiliated with American Virtual Dimensions and IOS Fine Art as the ASAG had been touted earlier.

Maybe we should take a closer look at this....Gamut Control company..... Here’s a Better Business Bureau report that shows Gamut as actually managed by...you guessed it..... John Golfis.

Here's the scoop...."JG"... as Golfis calls himself now to make it more difficult to identify him as having a criminal background....has long been conducting his own "ponzi" operation. He operates – strategically – by placing people like John McCormic...and Kim Klatt...into key positions with his companies....such as by making them company officers or...."board" members. In the process, he steals their money, their notoriety or both.

And John Golfis isn't bashful....he goes after the highest profile of public figures....sometimes aiming directly for their reputation and image....and sometimes indirectly, for their pocketbook.... Take Al Pacino for instance....Here's Mr. Pacino hanging around on Gamut Control's wall....Now...here he is helping to promote the Art Couture Gallery website.....Look! He made it to the Art Couture Gallery party....I guess any friend of Al is a friend of all these people too....(smile!)

<http://www.slide.com/r/YE2DyiREnz8BxvZG8U73rMf3y9mNrHNY?cy=bb>

Here's Clint.....He made Gamut's party at the Art Couture Gallery too....

<http://nancystandlee.blogspot.com/2009/01/art-couture-gallery-gamut-control-gala.html>

And if pictures could talk, they'd be saying that Gamut Control and the Art Couture Gallery has "connections" too.... with Sammy Davis, Jr....with Frank Sinatra....and John Lennon....Mohammed Ali....Audrey Hepburn.....Marlon Brando....Robert DiNero.....

Robert DiNero....You know....I believe I read that as recently as this past July 15th, 2009, Robert DiNero... a prominent art enthusiast and collector himself...became the victim of a New York art scam.

<http://news.muckety.com/2009/04/02/ny-art-dealer-charged-with-defrauding-art-owners-investors-of-88m/14011>

Muckety, the online publishing company, said Mr. DiNero,... who had just finished up on shooting a film in Michigan....was ripped off of over a million dollars in artwork....by a New York art dealer using a “Ponzi-style” scheme. The Muckety article says that just as Bernard Madoff used stocks to lure investors, this Manhattan art gallery owner... Lawrence B. Salander... used works of art to bilk art owners, investors....and a bank...out of at least 88 million dollars.

Hmm....something sounds familiar here....

They go on to say that this 100-count indictment.... names Salander and Salander O'Reilly Galleries LLC on a gamut of charges....funny they should be using the word “gamut” in describing this case....that include grand larceny, securities fraud and forgery. The report alleges these crimes defrauded 26 people and occurred between July 1994 and November 2007.

Here’s Tony Curtis....early in the Fall 2009, the Art Couture Gallery was promoting an exhibition of his art pieces along with his personal appearance at a red carpet event and dinner with this Hollywood legend.

<http://www.artcouturegallery.com/tcinvite.html>

Now, could this convicted fraudster and sex offender be targeting wealthy seniors? Here’s a more recent picture of Tony Curtis posted by the New York Daily News.....At the very least we know that Gamut Control and the Art Couture Gallery are not using current photos in their promotion of Mr. Curtis’s more recent works. God bless you Mr. Curtis.

By NANCY INSARTON
DAILY NEWS PHOTOGRAPHY
PHOTOGRAPH BY NANCY INSARTON

Former movie heartthrob Tony Curtis looked more like J.R. Ewing from 'Dallas' than at an exhibition of his own private art collection in London Thursday looking frail and weak.

Actor-turned-artist Tony Curtis went to an exhibition of his own private collection of 35 oil paintings in London Thursday looking frail and weak.

The former Hollywood hottie — circa 1959 — arrived with a wheelchair and without his trademark toupee.

The 82-year-old star, born Bernie Schwartz in New York in 1925, also sported a massive grey Stetson cowboy hat while he posed at the easel, conjuring up images of an aged J.R. Ewing from 'Dallas.'

Curtis was able to stand briefly by Hammonds owner Mohamed Al Fayed for a photo shoot — the British retail magnate pretended to paint his face and handed him a banana as part of a running joke — but appeared relieved to sit back down again, according to London's Daily Mail.

He's needed the wheelchair since a bad bout with pneumonia in 2006. Curtis told the paper, though he still gets "exercise and stuff." He also skips sugar: "Eliminate sugar and your body will equalize its weight," he said.

Still, displaying a massive grin, Curtis' good humor didn't appear to be dimmed by his bald pate and geriatric wheels.

Joking about his relationship with his wife Jill Vandenberg, 40, he said "I keep her young too."

And we mustn't leave out William Shatner .....and his wife Elizabeth Shatner....Art Couture Gallery and Gamut Control pull all stops when it comes to marketing their status through celebrity connections and high profile events.

CELEBRITY EVENT SPONSORED BY ART COUTURE GALLERY AND GAMUT CONTROL (DFW)

Reply to: 90991575@comcast.net
Date: 2008-12-19, 12:11PM CST

(Dallas, Texas - December 2008) Gamut Control of Irving, Texas and Art Couture Gallery of Dallas, Texas team up to present a high profile celebrity event at the Art Couture Gallery on Friday, and Saturday, January 18th and 19th of 2009.

ABOUT GAMUT CONTROL

Gamut Control has revolutionized digital fine art reproduction by combining the use of available high-end hardware and software with their own proprietary system into a single production process. They create fine completely done away with the need for printing and color correction. This process begins with capturing each fine detail in the original artwork and then transferring the image, pixel by pixel, to the Gamut Control to create a completely faithful reproduction of the original in all its brilliant color and texture. They stretch the gamut of the high end, wide format inkjet printer to ensure that each color is accurately portrayed.

ABOUT ART COUTURE GALLERY

The Art Couture Gallery, an AAAA (Artist Strategic Alliance Group) member of Gamut Control, was created to bring to the world a new kind of gallery representation for artists. At the gallery, one can see the results of Gamut Control's remarkable technology and meet the artist who created the work. There is no more middle man between the artist and the gallery which is evidence that these companies offer something that no other art company is capable of: new artistic representations and reproductions to the highest degree. The Art Couture Gallery is located in an upscale location off of Light Street in Dallas, TX.

I can tell you firsthand, that John Constantine Golfis will go after anyone and everyone....be they experienced business entrepreneurs, aspiring creative artists, or inexperienced college graduates. He'll provide all of them with corporate management "titles", worthless contracts of employment, stock in worthless companies, and discounted costs on services and technology items that don't even belong to him.

Here's a letter straight from Washington, D.C. that he fraudulently used to entice me into a signing a worthless contract in 1998....He told me that he was preparing a big video production project for NASA.

Golfis' business proposals always require people provide HIM with something, whether it be their own investment capital in the startup of another facet of his "company", or by use of their notoriety or work product to promote his so-called "business". It could be an art product, a professional service, or something else of value....even a loan, Golfis pulls no stops. He's been known to con commercial building owners for vast areas of business space. When I met him he had secured two floors of a luxury office building in Encino, not far from the home of the Michael Jackson family, ...with nothing but a promise that he would foot the cost to supply the building owner with satellite technology and high-speed communications access.

From leased furniture to borrowed equipment and work products, John Golfis "plays" people like a chess player strategizes his game...all with the purpose of fraudulently acquiring capital and legitimacy to support the structure of his illegal "ponzi" scheme.

Why has John Golfis been able to continue this type of operation for over three decades?...I'll explain when we come back. First, check out this message of advertisement...

So why has John Constantine Golfis been able to continue this type of fraudulent operation for over three decades? There are a number of reasons:

First, by the time many people realize they have been duped by John Golfis, they are already embarrassed and humiliated. Some fear publicly exposure of their own vulnerability so refuse to do their civic duty of "exposing" this criminal by reporting him to law enforcement authorities. Those who HAVE properly reported their victimization to local police and prosecutors have, like me, been turned away by their so-

By the time anyone gets an attorney and files a complaint, Golfis' dissolves his company, or takes his companies into bankrupt protection. Meanwhile, he uses whatever stolen business assets he can make off with to furnish his next "business" operation, which had already been started while he was bilking people out of the previous business. Take a look at just a smidgeon of the lawsuits that have been filed over the years by people following the advice of law enforcement, hiring lawyers, and filing civil cases against Golfis. Not only are law enforcement agencies saving money on their manpower, it's clear that our court systems rack up pretty hefty profits by allowing Golfis to continue this type of operation.

Some of Golfis' victims don't want to spend additional time, money or energy chasing after a previous bad investment of their time, money, or energy. They choose to cut their losses and move on without reporting anything except a loss on their income taxes...that is... unless they are the one named jointly in a lawsuit with John Golfis because of their affiliation as an officer or other representative of Golfis' defunct

Now really, these companies like Gamut Control and Gamut Fine Art Publishing, ...even Art Couture Gallery...are little more than the alter-ego of John Golfis himself, “here today and gone tomorrow”. Take a look...

Why hasn't anyone from the state and federal government offices bothered to put this guy behind bars for tax evasion? I can tell you why.....the IRS goes after Golfis' victims instead. They're easier to track down.... and frequently they have no proof of what Golfis did with either people's investment capital or the company assets after he has either shifted his assets or skipped town.

Here's a blog dated January '09....It states this Artist Strategic Alliance Group was formed in 2004, to oversee the decisions made within Gamut Fine Art Publishing. This is a classic "Golfis strategy", to target people using that which otherwise is designed to protect investors and consumers. He has a long history of using technological advances to prey upon artists....demoralizing those from whom he steals – even rapes – to suit his own sociopathic agenda.

 Gamut Control and Gamut Fine Art Publishing form the Artist Strategic Alliance Group
 January 26th, 2009 - Business

The Artist Strategic Alliance Group or ASAG is an alliance that was formed to protect the interests of artists. Gamut Fine Art Publishing and Gamut Control Fine Art Publishing's intentions to form this alliance, and then, the art world has a new force which not for the buying and selling of art.

ASAG or the Artist Strategic Alliance Group is an alliance that was formed in 2004 but was recently expanded to include an advisory board to oversee the decisions made within Gamut Fine Art Publishing and protect the rights of artists. The alliance was formed to protect the artistic process and keep everyone in check during each step taken to create the art. Several artists and well-respected artists as well as art magazine publishers are on the board and each about how the alliance will strengthen the artists community as a whole. James Finkbeiner, the publisher of Fine Art Magazine, is one of the advisory board members. He is very well known in the fine art community and is a living legend of the art world. Finkbeiner is fully supportive of the alliance and will continue to assist Gamut Control's mission to expose their profound technology artwork as well as internationally.

Gamut Control and Gamut Fine Art Publishing have wonderful intentions of growing this alliance to become even greater than it is now. This idea originally came about after these two companies began to identify their own marketing weaknesses. They have had their own faults and shortcomings along the way but have corrected them and created the alliance to perfect themselves and protect the artists they represent. They have taken major steps to improve databases, develop new marketing strategies, and have added artists to their team to correct administrative errors. This has taken much time, effort, and money, but they believe it will pay off for them as well as their faithful artists.

The future of ASAG is being built on helping artists avoid unnecessary drawbacks in their careers by being taken advantage of. The money in the past has been money from artists promising ASAG but not holding up their end of the targets to market and advertise the artist's work. Other companies have often promised quality limited editions only to continue to register and lower the value of the art and artist. There are no many successful people and there are many people on artists and their goals to live their dream as artists. ASAG was designed to protect these artists from occurring. The best members are all there in good faith for the benefit of artists to long organizations and publishing houses to check and hold them accountable for their actions. It is hoped that this alliance will become one of the most well-respected and trusted alliances in the art community. They eventually want to be able to be recognized with so that customers across the country and worldwide know they can no longer go anywhere and be disappointed. ASAG has big plans for the future, but for now is still in its beginning phase of formation. The organization is growing and building together quite well, but still has a way to go. Their training grounds will be now be with Gamut Control, LLC, Gamut Fine Art Publishing, LLC, and the Art Gallery (Dallas, TX). The alliance is also working in conjunction with Fine Art Magazine and Art Business News to bring about a new age in the art-making and distributing process.

ASAG is looking to a prosperous 2009 and believes this year will be the first of many substantial years. Their new beginning starts on the 26th of January, 2009 at the celebrity gala event at Art Gallery Dallas. Gamut Control will be represented along with their best of the best, world-renowned artists showing their support. Gamut Fine Art Publishing as well as the major fine art magazines, Art Business News and Fine Art Magazine, will also be in attendance. ASAG would like to encourage the rest of the fine art community to join them at this event and kick off the New Year with a bang!

So what IS going on there in the Dallas/Ft. Worth area of Texas?...Where are the whistleblowers?....And what are the likes of this former Texas police chief....this current criminal court judge.... and this North Dallas mayor....doing associating themselves with and legitimizing this perpetuating criminal?

What are these civic “servants” doing to ensure that WE the people are protected against the probability that this career criminal....this professional con artist....this rapist.... isn’t just using more of us to set others of us up?

Here...on the left... is former police “Chief” Catherine Smit. She touts herself to be a professional private investigator. From 2004 to 2008 she was police chief of the Cochrell Hill Texas Police Department. According to Victor Medina, “chief” Smit is one of the newly elected officers heading up the GOP merger being celebrated at the Art Couture Gallery. As shown here....she socializes with the likes of Texas Attorney General Greg Abbott..... and Congressman Kenny Marchant.

I’ve got a few stories to share with you about Attorney General Greg Abbott, but I’ll save that for another time....

In the middle of the photo is Lucie Weaver, a Dallas County election judge..... Here's Lucie Weaver with another Judge... Robert Francis. He's a Dallas County republican... a CRIMINAL district court judge.

On the right.... is Alexandra Fincher.... She not only managed the campaign for Mayor Joe Chow in Addison, she also leased 1800 square feet of space in Addison for John Golfis and Gamut Control to set up shop. Now she's on the "advisory board" for the Art Couture Gallery.....operating under the motto that "Ethics makes for wonderful successful business".

Ethics?!.... in the hype and promotion of business entities that are the brainchild of a professional con-artist and convicted sex offender?

Even the Art Business News and Fine Art Magazine are in bed with Gamut Control....with Art Couture.... and ultimately...with John Golfis...as they clamor to support his Artist Strategic Alliance Group.

Here's what Jamie Forbes wrote to John Golfis in an email....."I admire your grit John...Under the worst of times and circumstances, you have done so well"...Has he got all these people convinced that HE'S the victims here?.....Give me a break!.....

 I admire your grit John . Under the worst of times and circumstances you have done so well. My best Jamie

 Will call tomorrow . Have a thought

Isn't it that these people are really more interested in promoting and validating each other's careers more than they are interested protecting the public, protecting fine artists, to providing people with real copyright protection?

So what else has John Golfis had his hands into lately, and who else is currently paying the price for their affiliation with this fraudster?.....We'll find out right after this message...

Let's look at what else John Golfis has had his hands into.....and who else is paying the price for letting their guard down with this fraudster....

It should be clear that "John G's sphere of influence" operates broad and wide... even affecting people in such States as Arizona, California, Florida, and Michigan. Many have never even heard of John Golfis, much less worked for him in one of his business aliases such as Gamut Control or Art Couture Gallery.

Take this Park West Gallery defamation case in the U.S. District Court of Southeast Michigan, for instance.

<http://news.prnewswire.com/DisplayReleaseContent.aspx?ACCT=104&STORY=/www/story/02-12-2009/0004971541&EDATE>

Apparently, the defamation against Park West Gallery.... allegedly by Franks, Hochman, Phillips, and other so-called art “experts”.....began soon afterward that proposal fell through. The court documents state that these art specialists had claimed the Park West Gallery was misrepresenting the authenticity of their artwork at international auctions. Articles published on the Fine Arts Registry website, as well as blog entries on the Internet, clearly alleged that Park West was selling paintings on commercial cruise lines at a price that was far above fair market value.

What Park West Gallery learned soon after filing the defamation suit in Spring of 2008, was that in 2007 Theresa Franks had been scheming with John Golfis.....on a daily basis....and as a strategic partner.... to develop a television show dubbed “Fine Art TV”. That aim of that show was to build a following by profiling Park West Gallery as a fraud. Fine Art TV...another brainchild of John C. Golfis, was set to premiere in the first quarter of 2008....however to date, nothing has aired.

Here is a publication fashioned by “JG” and published by Gamut Control. It states that the television program was to be syndicated by a “subsidiary” company of Gamut Control called Gamut Control Entertainment. The publication says the program was to focus on “the good, the bad and the ugly” issues of the art world.

Was that ever an understatement!

Take a look however. This television show bears some uncanny resemblances to another television show proposed by John Golfis in 1995 when he was running a company in Minnesota called “Art-In-Motion”. That television show....touted to be an “animated sitcom” was to be entitled “Expresso”....

This newspaper article of Eden Prairie, Minnesota states that “John Golfis was responsible for creating the company.... and he was the driving force behind the company’s entertainment endeavors.”

Well, here now in the present.....not so coincidentally about the time Gamut Control and Arizona’s Fine Arts Registry were scheming to use a TV show to defame Park West Gallery.....certain “blog” sites on the Internet started posting derogatory articles and comments written by Theresa Franks and others...defaming Park West Gallery. Sometimes written under pseudonyms, these articles and comments were an attempt to validate the television business venture between the Fine Arts Registry and Gamut Control.

As this Gamut Control press release itself shows, the television syndication of “Expresso” was intended to serve a dual purpose. First, was to introduce and promote Gamut Control's so-called “next generation” of technology for reproducing artwork. Second, the reproductions or art “clones”, otherwise referred to as.... “glicees”.....were to be created using the Fine Arts Registry’s patented tagging and registration system.... for authentication of the reproductions as they were created from their artists’ originals.

Here’s what Theresa Franks had posted at the Fine Arts Registry website early in March 2008. This online newsletter plainly shows that Franks and Golfis were “in bed together”....figuratively speaking..... Note these articles specifically name the Park West Gallery in multiple stories about art fraud on the high seas. One story pertained to a cardiologist from Pennsylvania claiming that he was the victim of an “Auction Scam” while on a “Celebrity Cruise” ship from Vancouver to Anchorage.

Here's two more on the same Fine Arts Registry webpage; this third article focuses on "Park West At Sea", an affiliate company of Park West Gallery. It tells how vacationers are often enticed by the cruise line auctioneers "to drop many tens of thousands of dollars on previously unplanned art purchases". The article says that they are "voicing complaints about the sales process and the nature or quality of the goods"....which they reportedly purchased through Park West employees or through independent contractors of Park West.

Now a curious thing happened with this March 2008 newsletter a short while after it was first published by the Fine Arts Registry. Notice the significant changes to THIS version of the very same newsletter. All mention of Gamut Control was deleted for some reason.....I wonder why?

Perhaps it had something to do another type of blog complaint being posted about that same time – blogs complaining about John Golfis being a fraud...written by fine artists feeling like they had been “ripped off” by the management team of McCormick and Golfis at Gamut Control, LLC.

According to the blog, this artist was commissioned by Golfis in 2006 to provide her with a total of twelve different portraits for which she was never paid. Like so many of John Golfis' other "victims", she describes how she spent months calling Golfis every day... only to get the same runaround. She stated in the blog complaint that she had just found out that an online "Ripoff Report" had shown that good ol' "JG" was doing business as Gamut Control rather than IOS Fine Art..... and when she went to the Gamut website...lo-and-behold... she found one of her art pieces being showcased by Golfis without her permission.

So why is it is that the FBI and the U.S. Attorney did not do anything about this guy John Golfis? And why haven't they done anything about him yet? You can bet most everyone who has been scammed by this guy, John Constantine Golfis, has asked that very same question..... I know I did when Golfis defrauded me of $5000 cash and an employment contract as a computer animation artist in 1998. Mine was one of the stories that led to his conviction in California in 2001. It's not an easy story to tell however. That story will begin as soon as we return from this brief message:

About the time I filed MY crime report, I found out that the FBI and the Los Angeles police had both been “watching” Golfis..... even as he took my money..... and I was furious. To add insult to that injury, neither the LAPD nor the FBI did anything afterwards.....even despite my having located other victims with similar stories and filing crime reports about their experiences with John Golfis.

In my case, believe it or not, the local sheriff's deputy just called John Golfis on the phone and informed him that I and another of his so-called "employees" had just finished filing criminal allegations against him. At the time, Golfis was running a so-called television and video production company called "Reel Images"....he was operating on two floors of a luxury office building in Encino, just blocks away from Michael Jackson's family home. After tipping Golfis off about our having filed formal crime reports, that deputy called us back to tell us that Golfis had told him that it was all just a big “misunderstanding”.....You know...the check’s in the mail...I’ll respect you in the morning...Don’t call us, we’ll call you.....you know....

The deputy told me.... that Golfis said he’d pay me... if I wrote him a letter requesting the return of my $5000 and the money he neglected to pay me for my first two weeks of so-called “employment”. That government official added that in the meantime, Golfis had informed HIM... that he didn’t want ME returning back to his business office. Golfis was claiming that I was incompetent....you know....blaming the victim.....And this nincompupe officer bought it....He told me I should just write Golfis a letter... and demand my money back.....and the if he didn’t pay it in a reasonable time....that I should go hire an attorney, and pursue the matter through civil litigation..... Yeah right!

So here’s the letter I wrote....Note that I was clear about my demand for the return of my money....I was just as clear about my intent to inform him that I knew what he had done was intentional... and that I meant to have him arrested and criminally prosecuted as a fraud....And here’s the certified envelope that the post office returned back to me nearly three weeks later.... Of course it was undeliverable.

The gross negligence and incompetence of that Ventura County sheriff’s deputy’s ...and his supervisor’s “dereliction of duty” when I complained about that officer.....cost ME precious time....and only bought John Golfis MORE time to gather his company assets and skip town. He ended up leaving the state and moving to Texas where he had a new “shop” set up in no time.

Needless to say, in the wake of his leaving, it did not take me long to locate other victims of John Golfis... many previous “employees”....like me....who were left high and dry without a paycheck. Some gave me the phone numbers of others... and they in turn gave me lists of still more others.....many who had for some reason left Golfis’ company....like me....either suddenly or very unhappy...and told not to return....I contacted each name provided to me....and that’s when I discovered that not only did Golfis have numerous previous startup and defunct, or bankrupt companies....in multiple states....and with numerous “investors” and business “partners” crying FOUL...because they had lost anywhere between $20,000 and over $100,000 each.....but that all the while the LAPD and the FBI had sat on the sidelines....just "watching" John Golfis continue to do it.

I watched many of these “Golfis” victims simply give up because their losses had already cost them so dearly, financially and emotionally.... That was nearly also the case with me. But I was so outraged at my local government officials that I went on a persistent letter-writing campaign... while also broadening my investigation of additional Golfis victims...and my hunt for John Golfis himself....I was dumbfounded to find out that just a couple of months after fleeing California, Golfis was already set up with four walls and a furnished business suite somewhere....and with two other companies...doing business as “EZ Ink” and “HD Reel“..... Check it out.....

The image shows three documents. The first is a personal information sheet for John Golfis, listing his current home, business, and cell phone numbers, his current residence, and his current business address. The second is a business card for REEL IMAGES, LLC, showing the company's name, address, and phone number. The third is a handwritten note from EZ Ink, dated 10/14/10, which reads: "Hope that these samples do the trick. The HD area is wide open for sales & distribution. Will forward request from that area. Tell me how it goes." The note is signed with a signature and includes the EZ Ink logo.

It was pretty clear to me that for this to happen so quickly, Golfis must have been working with a accomplice...somewhere in the Dallas/Ft. Worth area. I still believe today that hunch then was correct. I think Golfis has long had some kind of a business “underwriter”...somebody like a relative or friend to help him to get set up again and again...and financing his fraud upon the innocent public. For all I know, perhaps that’s what the FBI had been looking at for the previous two decades before he ripped me off.

At any rate...over the subsequent months, I had compiled a list of about 79 victims. They stretched across the United States...east and west from coast to coast and north and south from border to border. I interviewed scores of people who had lost their life savings. Entire networks of families and friendships had been destroyed by Golfis’ business “vision” involving these people, each who – like me – had “bought into” Golfis’ assurances and contracts.

I located numerous immigrant families, conveniently targeted by Golfis because they came over with money they had otherwise saved for discovering their “American Dream”...but who after getting ripped off by Golfis either did not know... or did not feel comfortable... dealing with America’s police and prosecutors, or our so-called “justice” system.

Virtually all the victims told the same story. Like me, they HAD gone to their local law enforcement for help....only to be told by their county prosecutors that there was nothing they could or would do about Golfis... because what he was doing was a “civil” matter. They reiterated this even despite that John Constantine Golfis already had a previous federal conviction record in Texas some decade and a half prior.

Can you see folks....what's going on here and now in the "art" world...is "stemming" from Texas... but reaching so many others across the United States. I have evidence that it even extends to people living in Canada now. This criminal has been going on for over three decades. Wasn't this about as long as the government allowed Bernie Madoff to keep his "ponzi" scheme going?

More recently, this has been going on in Texas since 2004...and nearly ever since John Golfis got out of prison in California after my investigation helped put him away...and despite that he went in convicted rapist and came out registered sex offender. What is going on with our law enforcement and other government officials? This is absolutely ludicrous!

When I saw this same thing happening in 1998...and while my "victims list" was continuing to grow into an endless stream of even more victims...I went on a letter-writing campaign of protest with a request for help from the County... from the State...and from the Federal government.... I even went to my congressman....In each case, my repeated petitions were met only by repeated injuries.... If and when the prosecutors, the state attorney general, and/or the FBI did respond to one of my numerous letters of complaint...their replies consisted of nothing but excuses and rhetoric.

Here is just a sampling of those letters I received back from my public "SERVANTS" in 1998:

This first one was from the Los Angeles district attorneys' office....They did not respond for nearly three months after I had first filed my crime report with local police....These DA's, GIL GARCETTI and DUANE TRUMP, were adamant that they absolutely would NOT direct an investigation into the matter. They reasoned that the local police had not yet even determined that a crime had been committed against either me or any of the other John Golfis' victims. Note that these DAs' last paragraph recommends... that I hire an ATTORNEY instead....Heck...I thought that was what these DA's were....attorneys!

When it was clear that the County would not act appropriately by issuing an arrest warrant against John Constantine Golfis, even despite that he had already left town....I complained to the California attorney general about all this local level incompetence, and the "dereliction" and malfeasance of official duty of my local police and county district attorneys....In reply, Attorney General DAN LUNGREN sent back a letter to me consisting of nothing but rhetoric.

http://www.mccnc.org/about\_board.html

The first three paragraphs of this letter simply echoed what I had found in the DA's letter... telling me that it's the local police who conduct criminal investigations, not the State attorney general Dan Lungren recommended that I just go back to the local level for more of the same stuff..... Now isn't there a rule of reason that says, "Screw me once, shame on you; screw me twice, shame on me?" Where was my power of choice here. I was getting the sense that I was being OPPRESSED... by my government.

The fourth paragraph of the letter – signed also by GLORIAMALIA PEREZ who went on to become the President of the Mexican Cultural Center of Northern California – states that Attorney General Dan Lungren....who has since gone on to become a California CONGRESSMAN....was simply unwilling to override the decision of the local authorities. ...and was similarly unwilling to even check out my allegations about their refusal to do anything about John Golfis either. This amounted to Congressman Lungren essentially condoning Golfis' continuing to victimize other innocent people....from California and elsewhere across the U.S..... The last paragraph from Dan Lungren basically says, "If you don't like it.... tough shit..."... He wrote, "the DECISION of the prosecutor is the final decision".... And that I had no choice but to blindly – and humbly – bend over....and simply accept the local government's decision....despite being a law-abiding taxpayer....and Dan Lungren's boss.

Let me tell you something people, it's time we take back this government...and let Dan Lungren and others like him know that THEY WORK FOR US....They are living on OUR taxpayer dollars...with jobs as OUR public servants...with duties WE THE PEOPLE have defined.....

We must continually remind government officials like this and that in order to be placed in their office they had to swear a solemn Oath to those duties. We should be also consistently reminding them that when – as in this case – they fail to fulfill those sworn Oaths and those ministerial Duties, that they too can be criminally prosecuted for their willful malfeasance and their treason against the People who put them in office.

Well....I shouldn't have to tell you that when I tried phoning the Office of the Attorney General Dan Lungren.... I got nothing but a runaround from...Gloriamalia Perez...nothing but her persistent reminders of the recommendations the attorney general had sent to me in writing....and while repeatedly denying me any further address of the issues.

By that time I was writing back to the Los Angeles District Attorney. I was also sending additional complaints to the Los Angeles police chief and the FBI. I got no satisfactory response from any one of these government agencies. Therefore, I took the matter to my Congressman...at the time that was ELTON GALLEGLY. All that congressman did was forward my letter to the FBI with his own brief cover letter request for a response. THIS LETTER... is what he got back from the FBI. It fails to address any specific item of the complaint I wrote..... It simply states that what I complained about could not be characterized as a violation of any federal law....REALLY!!

Again, since this federal government agent NEGLECTED to address ANY of my stated facts about the case...or any of the evidence that I had provided to my congressman along with what was becoming a “snowballing” complaint more about government officials than the original criminal John Golfis.... it was difficult for me to succinctly challenge this additional layer of government incompetence in the handling of this criminal matter.....All it appeared I could do was to complain about my local, state, and federal government’s failure to do their job...and their failure to honor my Constitutional right to “due process” as a crime victim.

What dumbfounded me was seeing that Congressman Elton Gallegly was completely satisfied by this type of inadequacy in the FBI’s answer... that is, until I persisted in notifying him that I expected him to respond instead to all of the factual allegations and evidence that the FBI had otherwise refused to address...Still, this congressman Gallegly continued to fully accept the FBI’s gross negligence, incompetence, and dereliction of duty to enforce the laws of California and of the United States...until I began threatening to expose what was going on by delivering a report to the local television news media. Only then did Congressman Gallegly make the effort to write another letter to the FBI requesting a further explanation for their refusal to do anything about the trail of victims left behind by John Golfis.

I was still pounding on the door of both the Los Angeles prosecutor and the local office of the FBI when I found myself in the proverbial “Catch-22”. ...The “financial crimes” unit of the Los Angeles police responded by telephone....you know, so they don’t have to put it in writing....and the local office of the

3. Bernard C. Parks

1208 ANGLETON, Feb. 16 — Top police officials here offered a scathing public indictment of the criminal and rapaciousness within their troubled department today, saying that three out of four officers had been faced with little eating and then allowed to use virtually all of available

These lapses, the officials said, were especially bad at some of the special divisions designed to use aggressive tactics against gangs and dealers in crack cocaine, and had thus contributed to a scandal that has shocked the city with reports of widespread and unchecked police corruption.

These lapses, the officials said, were especially bad at some of the special divisions designed to use aggressive tactics against gangs and dealers in crack cocaine, and had thus contributed to a scandal that has shocked this city with reports of widespread and entrenched police corruption.

The problems of a rapidly expanded and underdeveloped police force have emerged at police departments of other large cities, notably Washington, where politicians responded to the crack epidemic in the late 1980's and the early 1990's with calls for placing more uniformed officers on the streets. In some of these cities there have been similar debates over whether the police departments have brought on too many people too quickly. Scaling to show that are more better

"When there is a sudden intrusion of new realities, they overrule the organization," said Edward J. Hyatt, the police chief of Arlington County, Va. "They are able to impose their values on the organization. They can be resistant to positive monitoring."

United recently, most political leaders, including the mayor, have had little to say about the scandal, at which point of the violence, says anti-smuggling activist Anders. Many have interpreted

The City Council has not called for an outside investigation, and after today's hearing, several members said they were content to let the current inquiry, at the police department and the district attorney's office, take their course.

Chief Parks said that, although there was no criminal investigation yet of other police divisions, "the tolls are high" of supervisory lapses were present across the Department and were

The police officials said today that all of the officers so far implicated in the scandal had been hired in the late 1960s and early 1970s, when there was no great pressure to add to the force quickly, and that none of them should ever have been hired because of problems that they have been caught in the standard background checks. The problems found among officers hired during that period included arrests and histories of alcoholism, domestic violence or outstanding debts, Chief Pardo said.

Mr. Bostle said that in many instances there were "very clear flags that something was wrong, and either people did not find it, or when they did, chose not to take action."

The Attorney also allows change the way the specialist police division operates. They have given great importance to getting young members and drug dealers, which was left to some corruptible and/or easily aggressive tactics. The police officials said today that they planned to take away some of the officer autonomy and force them back into maintenance procedures.

"Where was the 1,345 FDs in standing up, on our law-enforcement experts, in saying we're making a mistake in trying to make police officers and not putting in place for other agencies?"

Chief Pardo rejected questions about whether it exists a crisis of violence among police officers but commented to the scandal: "It is no more pervasive at the I-A-P-21 than in the general population," he said.

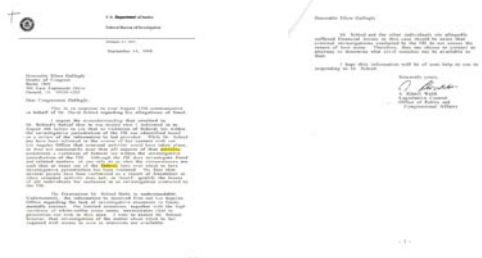

On the other hand, my persistency with the FBI led to several personal discussions with a “special agent”, mostly by phone, with an FBI agent by the name of GENE KENNEDY. When I complained that the local police were refusing to do anything because the feds were involved, his reply back to me was as straightforward as it was idiotic....He stated simply that the “FBI was doing nothing to STOP the local police from taking any action”....That answer was totally unacceptable and I let that agent Gene Kennedy know it. I also let this special agent know that by my investigating Golfis’ criminal background, I had by then documented over 70 known crime victims, with accumulated losses surmounting 1.3 million dollars.

Finally, this special agent leveled with me. He stated that though the FBI might LIKE to arrest and prosecute John Golfis, they had to set their priorities when it came to “white collar” crimes.... Basically, Golfis was “small potatoes” compared to other cases the FBI was also “watching”....or “investigating”.... Agent Gene Kennedy said that the FBI had stacks of files...piled high on their desks... of cases whereby there was relatively few victims...or even ONE victim.... with losses exceeding 1 million dollars each. He reasoned that the FBI would not even bother going after Golfis anytime soon because John Golfis was simply victimizing TOO MANY people.....It would mean the FBI would have TOO MANY victims to interview.....TOO MANY to collect evidence from.... TOO MANY to depend upon for trial questioning and cross-examination....etc..... He stated that the FBI simply did not have enough “resources” to secure an effective case against this career criminal.

I took Gene Kennedy’s statements to my Congressman in another letter, demanding that he hold our State and Federal law enforcement more accountable. Clearly, they were failing to properly communicate with each other; and they were failing their DUTY to protect the greater majority of people. Instead, they were servicing only the most wealthy fraud victims. Of course, Gallegly did nothing more than to once again forward to the FBI the letter that I had written to him.

When the FBI responded to the congressman’s second solicitation the letter read, “The fact that several people have been victimized as the result of fraudulent or other criminal activity does not, in itself, qualify the losses of all individuals for inclusion in an investigation conducted by the FBI”....That just reaffirmed what Gene Kennedy told me...that the FBI doesn’t care how many people are victimized. They intend to only go after crimes against the most wealthy in our society....and they simply don’t have the resources to prosecute most white collar criminals.

Hence, this letter from 1998 helps to answer the question about why Bernie Madoff and John Golfis have been able to continue defrauding people for decade after decade, without our government doing their jobs. Criminal fraud against hundreds or thousands of people was simply not high enough on the FBI's priority list.

The FBI didn't even have the time or the disposition to notify the local police that they would take no interest in John Constantine Golfis. I had to do that myself. By that time I had already been to the local police, to the financial crimes unit of the LAPD, the Los Angeles police chief, the DA, the attorney general, to the FBI and to my Congressman. And it was clear that without anywhere else to go, I was going to start over again at the bottom of the ladder with the LAPD and local DA's office. In this second round, I also filed a complaint with the California Board of Police Commissioners...against the Los Angeles police chief Bernard Parks. I guess at some point, at least he got the message.

In September '98, fully five months after I had filed my initial crime report, I got a letter from the Los Angeles police chief Bernard Parks. Get this...the letter, signed also by now retired Lieutenant Marlin D. Warkentin, gave credit to an LAPD police officer for what I had otherwise investigated and "discovered"...for what I had been otherwise broadcasting all along in my multiple letters of complaint.

The letter by this Los Angeles police chief was intentionally misleading. It stated, "the Financial Crimes Division of the LAPD had reviewed the circumstances surrounding my theft report; ...and THEIR investigation...." Whose INVESTIGATION? ... "revealed that special agent Gene Kennedy of the FBI was

This letter from was hogwash! It was meant to do nothing but placate me while providing something in writing for the police chief to send to the Los Angeles Police Commission to indicate that the police chief had a handle on this case all along. It didn't take a lot to figure out that this police chief Bernard Parks, and his lieutenant... Marlin D. Warkentin... were just using this letter to cover his backside when facing my complaint about the police chief to the LA Police Commission.

I think it worth it to take a brief sidebar here to point out that I did a little research on Bernard Parks and Lt. Marlin Warkentin....and you might be interested in knowing that the Los Angeles Times has reported that Bernard Parks tops the list of Los Angeles City employees drawing in a retirement income surmounting $265 thousand dollars while also serving as a Los Angeles City Councilman. His lieutenant also made the “six-figure” retirement income list, pulling in almost $108,000 a year....The taxpayers of Los Angeles County should be outraged. I know I’m STILL infuriated....

Though Bernard Parks had acknowledged that this John Golfis case was within his investigative jurisdiction, he still did not secure an arrest warrant...all I had was a letter telling me that the police had assigned the case to a police investigator....Let me tell you about this so-called “investigator” they assigned to my case....He was like a “Columbo”...seemingly slow, shall we say?... and hopelessly inept.... You know...totally useless....In short, the “detective” assigned by the LAPD financial crimes division continued to do nothing but string me along with claims about his being too busy with other cases to do any investigating on my case. It didn’t take long for me to realize that this detective was nothing but a ploy to keep me from bothering the police chief anymore.

process” appeal, the less likely the actual facts and evidence ever get addressed...and the more rhetoric and nonsense one gets in reply.

Seeing that the LAPD had assigned the Golfis case to their department’s “finest”; and that oversight of the police chief was in good hands....(shift eyes both ways).....I decided to write to the Los Angeles county Grand Jury.

Their response?... More rhetoric....Not “yes we’ll look into it”;.... not “no we won’t”; ....but simply more rhetoric...telling me about the duties of the Grand Jury.

Dear Mr. Schatz:

The Grand Jury has received your correspondence. The Grand Jury welcomes communications from the public because citizens can provide valuable information to the Grand Jury regarding matters for investigation.

The information you have provided will be carefully reviewed to assist the Grand Jury in deciding further action, if any, to take. If the matter is determined not to be within the Grand Jury's authority to investigate (e.g., a matter involving federal or state agencies or institutions, the courts, or a private dispute), there will be no further contact by the Grand Jury. If the matter is within the legally permissible scope of the Grand Jury's investigative powers and would warrant further inquiry, the Grand Jury will confidentially contact those individuals or entities who may be able to provide information.

By law, the Grand Jury is precluded from commenting on the results of its investigation, except in one of its formal public reports. All communications are confidential, but may not result in any action or report by the Grand Jury.

Sincerely,

STEVEN LUGER
Grand Jury Advisor

It was not even the grand jury foreman that responded. Instead, it was grand jury “advisor”. From what all I could tell, this was just another government official...likely another prosecutor...informing me about laws precluding the Grand Jury’s inability to communicate the RESULTS of its investigation...when indeed there NEVER WAS any investigation by the grand jury.

The letter stated, “If the matter is determined not to be within the Grand Jury’s authority to investigate, there will be no further contact by the Grand Jury”....and believe it or not, I’ve been waiting for the past 11 years.... and they’ve still never communicated with me.

So..... here we are in 2009 with the criminal...John Constantine Golfis....pictured comfortably on the same web page with a former U.S. President, a Texas mayor, a former police chief and private investigator, a renowned art designer, a Georgia state ambassador, an art magazine publisher, and others...go figure!

In 2008, Park West Gallery filed their defamation case against the Fine Arts Registry. That federal case started out in Florida and was moved in 2009 to Michigan where Park West is headquartered. While those suits have been progressing through the courts, the Fine Arts Registry has continued its online attacks while attempting to deflect exposure of the inevitable...that Theresa Franks was doing business with a convicted fraudster and sex offender when publishing numerous defamatory claims about Park West, and while pursuing a hidden agenda of promoting a television show produced by Gamut Control and John Golfis.

TERESA FRANKS, FINE ARTS REGISTRY AND DAVID PHILLIPS RESPONSE TO PARK WEST GALLERY, INC.'S MOTION TO DISMISS COMPLAINT IN CASE NO.
2:08-cv-12247

The judge in that U.S. District Court case is the “honorable” judge Lawrence P. Zatkoff. Have I got a story to tell you about that judge.... We’ll see if he has any inclination of notifying the U.S. Attorney’s office after he gets wind of this story....or if he’ll go so far as to convene a federal Grand Jury about this multi-state art fraud operation led by the career criminal John Golfis...who I had at one time worked really hard to get off the streets....The inside scoop I have about that judge says he’ll never do it....

There’s more to this story too...regarding Golfis’ involvement in our country’s national energy interests... and how the United States Department of Justice has for decades turned a blind eye towards Golfis’ infiltration into the national oil and gas regulatory industry...Stay tuned....

I’m David Schied showing YOU how.... “POWER CORRUPTS”.
